

VILLA FLAYS AMERICA AND IMPERILS ALL IN HIS POWER

Rebel Chief Shows His Teeth. Making a Statement in Which He Says He Does Not Care What Happens to Foreigners

DECLARES HE IS READY TO FIGHT UNITED STATES

'I Can Defeat Carranza and If I Have To I Can Whip the Yankees, Too,' He Asserts — Agua Prieta Attack Due Today

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
DOUGLAS, November 1. — American citizens in Mexican territory controlled by General Villa are face to face with death. General Villa has shown his teeth and now is an openly avowed enemy of the United States.

Several days ago it was reported that his officials had threatened the lives and property of Americans in Sonora, but yesterday the rebel leader made a statement which set at rest any doubt as to his intentions. If correctly quoted, the statement is tantamount to a withdrawal of protection from foreigners, action which has been feared ever since the recognition of General Carranza by the United States.

When informed yesterday that the United States was unmoved in its determination to permit passage of Carranza troops through American territory to attack him, Villa made the following statement:

"Ever since I have been in the field against Venustiano Carranza, the enemy to Mexican liberty, I have protected foreigners and especially Americans to the best of my ability at all times. I have gone to much trouble to guard their interests as well.

"Now the United States recognizes General Carranza and brands me as a revolutionary who is undeserving of sympathy or aid. After all my kindness to Americans and watchfulness of their interests I am repaid by being cast off as an undesirable and my enemy is given the right to attack me from territory, access to which is denied me.

"Hereafter I do not care what happens to foreigners in Mexico. If they are mistreated they must look to another for aid; they will receive none from me.

"If necessary I will fight the entire American army on the border. I can defeat the army of General Carranza, but it is asking almost too much of me to defeat the army of the United States also, but I suppose I can do that, too, if I try."

Within Striking Distance
General Villa is now within striking distance of the Carranza army, which he says he can defeat, and part of the American army also. His artillery has been placed for the attack on Agua Prieta, and his cavalry is holding itself in readiness three and a half miles east of the town.

The Carranzistas are well entrenched and are ready to resist in force. Every man was in arms at midnight and the battle was expected to begin almost any minute.

The Carranza army now numbers 6000. General Villa claims to have 18,000 men. This exceeds by 10,000 the force he is reported to have massed. Private advices say the Villa army is in a desperate condition. Many are suffering from starvation and thirst, it is said.

Brigadier-General Davis, commander of the American forces on the border, has left nothing undone in preparation for an attack on Douglas. His men are entrenched all along the border and last night many were under arms in event of a surprise attack.

There is little doubt that Villa will attack Douglas, in spite of the 14,000 reinforcements coming to General Calles via American territory. It is reported here that the rebel leader told Americans he would attack Agua Prieta in spite of any action of the United States.

The Ioann and Ioann Statoum carry four twelve-inch, four eight-inch and twelve six-inch guns. The Pantellimon carries sixteen six-inch guns. Each is equipped with four torpedo tubes.

The Ioann and Ioann Statoum were completed in 1906 and the Pantellimon in 1909.

With the exception of this one place all the reports state that the offensive has been repulsed, with heavy losses to the enemy.

There has been some fighting in the Artois district, but without decisive result to either side.

On the East front, it is reported, the Germans are preparing for another general drive on the Russians. Winter has set in there, though, and operations are becoming difficult. It is snowing heavily in some regions.

The Leona was plowing through a heavy sea when she went down. Pitching of the ship in the waves caused her cargo to shift and she began to list. TRIPLE OFFENSIVE IN SERBIA BRINGS STAGGERING LOSS

Invaders Continue Advance, Striking At Kraguyevatz And Nish

ANGLO-FRENCH MENACE BULGARIANS FROM SOUTH

Allies Renew Activity On Gallipoli To Balk Diversion Of Turks

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
LONDON, November 1. — The triple attack on Serbia continues to make headway, though at a staggering cost. With Pirot, the key to Nish, in the hands of the Bulgarians, the Austro-Germans are concentrating their efforts to accomplish the fall of Kraguyevatz, northeast of Nish.

In Kraguyevatz the principal Serbian arsenal is located. There the majority of ammunition and guns are manufactured for the Serbian army. If this town can be captured, therefore, the Serbians will be in desperate straits and unable to resist the triple drive much longer.

Closing In On Serbians
From Pirot and vicinity the Bulgarians are advancing on Nish, according to a report from Vienna, but are meeting a vicious resistance. The Serbians are retreating in a body, it is stated, but are covering their retreat with well-conducted rear-guard actions which are costing the Bulgarians heavily.

Allies On Firm Footing
An attack on the Bulgarians from the south is becoming more of a menace. It is reported that the Anglo-French, following their capture of Strumaitza, are firmly established at the south end of the Nish-Salonika railroad.

Reinforcements of the Allies, it is presumed, are making progress in their march to aid the Serbians, but there is a lack of information on this point. Nothing has been given out in regard to the position of these troops.

The fleets of the Allies are continuing their bombardment of both coasts of Bulgaria.

Gallipoli Aflame Again
Increasing activity of the Allies at the Dardanelles is reported from Turkish sources. A general attack is in progress on Gallipoli peninsula. It is believed here that the Allies are seeking to prevent a diversion of troops by the Turks for reinforcement of the Bulgarians in Southern Serbia.

FAY AS ARMY OFFICER REPUDIATED BY BERLIN

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
BERLIN, November 1. — Authorities of the government here declare that Robert Fay, the man arrested in New York for conspiracy to blow up steamers with cargoes for the Allies, is not, nor never was a German officer. United States secret officers who arrested Fay declared he was a lieutenant in the German navy. Fay admitted he was a German lieutenant, but the authorities say he is speaking falsely.

The mother and daughter escaped the Spaniard by flight, but the chauffeur was trapped on his return. The Spaniard pointing a revolver at him and ordering him to stand still. NAVAL SHIPS SOON TO QUIT HONOLULU

Seven Vessels, Including F-Class Submarines, Begin Voyage To Mare Island

Four K-class submarines will go to Pearl Harbor some time next week to make their permanent base. The tender Alert also will go. Thus Honolulu, which had seven submarines here yesterday morning, soon will have none, and the United States vessels in port, which numbered fourteen yesterday morning, will be reduced to the tug Navajo, the lightship tender Columbia and the Coast Guard cutter Thetis. Men of the submarines will be quartered in the new mines and torpedo building at Magazine Island, Pearl Harbor.

The German gunboat Geier and the collier Lockman will remain in Honolulu, said Adm. C. J. Boush, commander of the naval station.

The K-class submarines have much work to do, for, besides the regular submerged and surface runs, engineering tests, torpedo practice and the routine work of whatever nature it may be, they will work out details of plans for the cooperation of the army and navy in the defense of Oahu. Pearl Harbor is considered to be a better base than Honolulu.

Seven naval vessels steamed for Hilo yesterday morning. The three F-class submarines, first that ever were stationed here, were conveyed by the cruiser Maryland, the tug Iroquois and the auxiliary Naamkah. A big crowd saw them depart, and the three whistles of the salute from many craft kept the submarines busy in replying.

The four K-class submarines went out to sea with the F-class boats and returned about noon. The three submarines moved into the stream. The Naamkah passed out to sea ahead of them, and they moved down the fairway at eight-thirty on signal from the Maryland. The F-3 led; then came the F-2 and the F-1 was last. The first is the flagship of the division. Most of the men were on the decks, waving farewell. Families of officers and men were on the Alert and docks to say goodbye. Most of them will follow in the Wilhelmina, sailing Wednesday morning.

The Maryland and the Iroquois cast off at nine o'clock.

Hilo will be reached some time tomorrow, and if the arrival is early enough, a start will be made at once by 150 men of the Maryland for the volcano by automobile. If the ships are late the men probably will not go to the crater until tomorrow. Two days will be spent at Hilo, according to plans and then the ships will sail for San Francisco, to arrive in about eleven days from Hilo, or fourteen from Honolulu. An average speed of eight knots an hour to San Francisco will be considered good. Only extremely rough seas will prevent a stop at Hilo.

It is doubtful whether the F-class boats will return here. At any rate they will be at Mare Island several months undergoing survey and alterations to obviate faults pointed out in the Kittelle board, first to investigate the loss of the F-4.

TERRIFIC THUNDER STORM ON MOLOKAI

Exceptionally Vivid Lightning Destroys Four Miles of Telephone Poles and Line

A terrific thunder storm, accompanied by exceptionally vivid lightning visited Molokai last Tuesday, according to advices received by The Advertiser yesterday from Pukoo. About four miles of telephone pole and line leading from Brown's ranch to Halawa were destroyed. The Brown residence had a narrow escape from destruction by fire.

A bolt of lightning struck near the sampan Annie D. owned by Capt. Eugene Devauchelle, which was lying off Halawa waiting for a school akule. The crew of the sampan were asleep on board at the time, which was near midnight, the resultant shock throwing the natives into a state bordering on panic.

HEAVY STORM ON MAUI

A storm is reported from Maui which did considerable damage. Heavy seas pounded against the island's shores all Monday and Monday night. The breakwater is said to have stood, but severe damage was done in the vicinity of Kahului. A section of the Kahului railroad tracks, between Kahului and Paia, was washed out, and trains were compelled to make a circuit over plantation tracks pending repairs. A power sampan owned by E. R. Bevin was picked up from its moorings and dashed almost to the doorstep of the H. K. Duncan residence.

ASCH'S FUGITIVE HUNT COST $686

City Must Pay That Amount For Futile Chase After Bartlett and McGrath

To find, arrest and return to Honolulu Charles G. Bartlett and John J. McGrath, City Attorney Brown, for $679 and sent Deputy Sheriff Julius Asch to Mexico. Asch has returned, but without the men, and the city attorney confronts bills of $686. In a letter submitted to the board of supervisors last night Mr. Brown asked the board to appropriate money to meet these bills. The letter was referred to the police committee. It read as follows:

"Early in the month of September it became known to me through reliable sources that Charles G. Bartlett and John J. McGrath, fugitives from justice from the Territory of Hawaii were in Mexico near the American border and that there was a very good chance of their being captured and returned to Honolulu if prompt and proper steps were taken.

"With this in view, I arranged with Deputy Sheriff Julius Asch, who has also received the same information, secretly to leave Honolulu and proceed to the Mexican border and arrest these two parties, or either of them, and return with them to Honolulu.

"This office, not having funds or an appropriation for such a purpose, and the police department being, about any, and realizing the necessity of secrecy in a matter of this kind, I advanced the necessary coin to finance the undertaking and Mr. Asch proceeded on the trip.

"The undertaking was a failure so far as the bringing back of the fugitives was concerned, owing to unusual and unsettled conditions along the Mexican border.

"The expenses already incurred by myself in connection with this trip of Deputy Sheriff Asch to the Mexican border and certain Pinkerton detectives' expenses in connection with the arrest of Frank L. Hoogs in California amount to $686.

"I would therefore ask that an appropriation be made for the purpose of paying these expenses, and that an additional amount of $1000 be appropriated to defray any similar expense that may be necessitated for this office hereafter to incur in this line of work."

AMERICAN SHIP TAKEN AS PRIZE WHILE GOING TO DOMESTIC PORT

Steamer Hocking, Which Recently Abandoned Danish Registry, Together With Dutch Vessel, Seized By British Warship

COMPLICATIONS FEARED IN CASE OF THE HOCKING

Craft Delivered At Halifax But As Yet No Explanation Is Offered For Their Detention Nor Where They Were Picked Up

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
HALIFAX, November 1. —

With two steamers as prizes of war, one of which was an American vessel flying the American flag, a British battleship came into port yesterday, and her captures were tied up to await the decision of a prize court.

The American steamer is the Hocking. She formerly was the Danish steamer Gronland. Her registry was changed several weeks ago after she had completed a trip from Rio de Janeiro to New York. She was bound for Norfolk, Virginia, when seized by the British warship.

The other vessel is the Dutch steamer Hamborn. She was en route to Europe from New York.

First American Prize
Seizure of an American ship has created much surprise here. This is the first seizure by Great Britain of an American vessel as a prize of war, excluding the Wilhelmina, whose case is not apropos.

Reasons for the seizure of the Hocking have not yet been obtained, and while it is believed it could not have been without justification, it is feared the action will lead to international complications between Great Britain and the United States, especially in view of the last note of the American government to Great Britain reiterating its demand for freedom of the seas to American ships and the right to pursue their commerce with neutral countries unmolested.

Bound For Domestic Port

It is said there would be reason to assign a cause for the seizure or a change of registry had the Hocking been a German vessel, but having been under the flag of a neutral and changing to the flag of another neutral, it cannot be seen how its status would be affected. Moreover, the Hocking was bound for a neutral and domestic port, and this has served to complicate the case.

In an absence of details it is presumed information had been obtained by the warship from secret agents of the government which prompted the seizure.

CONFERENCE IS ARRANGED

NEW YORK, November 1. — Consul-General Skinner of London arrived here yesterday en route to Washington for conferences with Secretary of State Lansing.

He has been called to Washington, according to official announcement, to discuss the course of Great Britain in restraint of American commerce.

The consul general was asked yesterday, however, if he had not been recalled because of dissatisfaction with his efforts to press the American demands to a favorable conclusion. This the consul general denied, asserting his visit is for the purpose as announced at Washington.

WOMAN SAYS INTRUDER TOOK TWO SHOTS AT HER

Alleged to have fired two shots at an Irish woman, H. Hook, a part-time waiian is under arrest, charged with vagrancy. Jean Brown said that Hook went to her room Saturday night, fired two shots at her with a revolver and then ran away. Police Officer Antoine Joseph, who arrested Hook, found on his person a number of cartridges. Arthur Rockwell picked up a .38-caliber revolver in the woman's room.
